PROFESSIONAL PROFILE:

Dr. Mark Koscinski has more than forty years of business experience in both public and private accounting. Over his career, he has been controller or Chief Financial Officer of the following organizations: a Fortune 500 bank, a boutique merchant banking firm with multiple publicly traded entities, the third largest board game company in the United States, and a publicly traded aerospace and defense contractor with approximately 4,000 employees. While in public accounting, Dr. Koscinski worked for a Big 4 accounting firm, rising to the level of manager. Dr. Koscinski later maintained his own accounting practice, during which he served as interim chief financial officer for a start-up pharma company, a medical devices company, a Catholic diocese, a not-for-profit organization, and a construction company. Teaching a new generation of accountants and giving back to the community are now the driving passions in Dr. Koscinski's life. He qualifies as a scholarly practitioner under AACSB standards.
